Fighting for Firefighters

ABOUT GREG

Greg is a dedicated firefighter whose career spans thirty-four years. He is a long serving welfare representative with local union experience. He has six adult children, including two sons who have gone on to join the Fire Service as D1 Staff.

Greg is a keen entrepreneur and has been actively involved in Wellington's business community for many years as an investor, business owner and property developer. This experience makes him a savvy negotiator and a confident leader.

As a forward-thinker and a straight-talker, Greg stands for accessible and transparent leadership and believes that old-fashioned hard work and determination get the best results.

After more than three decades of fighting fires, Greg aims to turn his considerable life experience towards fighting for Firefighters. "Our work looking after our communities is vital, so it's vital that we're looked after too" he says. "We deserve an effective union that engages with members at every level in order to advocate for a fair deal for Firefighters "

Greg is an enthusiastic Motor Sport fan and motorcyclist. An Island Bay local of many years, Greg's drive to contribute to his community saw him appointed as a Justice of the Peace in 2010.
